

Why are stereotypes unfair and how can I challenge them?

Word	Definition
diversity	Diversity means differences. People may be different in many ways, including race or ethnicity, age, disabilities, language, culture, appearance, or religion community	A group of people living or working together in the same area identity	The set of qualities and beliefs that make one person or group different from others
stereotype	Ideas about how people will act, based on the group to which they belong
volunteer	Someone who spends some of their free time helping others

A volunteer is someone who spends some of their free time helping others and does not get paid for it.

It is against the law to mistreat an animal.

Ways to look after the environment include: picking up litter or not damaging trees.

Ways to look after the environment include: picking up litter or not damaging trees.

Key Knowledge and Concepts

There are lots of things that make up your identity including where you were born, places you have lived, your religion, interest or family.

A stereotype is a pre-conceived idea of how someone will act or behave based on the group they belong to. Examples of stereotypes could be: black people are fast runners; girls don't like football; boys don't cry; all nurses are women.

Leicester is a multicultural city where diversity is celebrated. There are different faith groups, ethnic groups and cultures.

