

How could my skills and strengths be used in future employment?

Word	Definition
Compliment	An expression of praise, admiration, or approval communicate	The sharing or exchange of messages, information, or ideas negotiate	To bargain or come to an agreement with another person improve	To make or become better employment	The condition of having a job
evaluation	A careful study of something in order to judge it or measure it and to make changes as necessary
feedback	The returning of opinions, corrections, or other information after something has been done or has happened
listener	To hear what other people say and act appropriately

Key Knowledge and Concepts

You have many skills—can you identify them? They might include: writing, solving a maths problem, buddy-ing someone who needs help in the playground, playing an instrument, tidying the classroom etc., at home they might be playing football, looking after a younger sibling, washing up, doing homework on the computer etc.

Perseverance is difficult it involves doing something despite it being difficult or there being a delay in achieving success.

Consider what they would like to be in the future and why – I would like to be a lorry driver because I could visit places I have never been to.

People need different skills to do different jobs:

- * a lorry driver – driving licence, ability to read maps, able to lift heavy things
- * a teacher—a degree, like children, subject knowledge, humour

